SURVEILLANCE RECORDINGS

For use by individuals who wish to requests copies of recordings or images of their personal data held on surveillance equipment

Why is surveillance equipment used?

We use surveillance equipment, such as CCTV as a means of keeping buildings secure and people safe; for both employees and members of the public.

How is the equipment managed?

In each location we will have assessed whether surveillance is the right method for meeting our aims of keeping buildings secure and people safe. We will have thought about the necessary quality of the recordings, where equipment is located and when and what they will be recording.

How will surveillance recordings be used?

Recordings from surveillance equipment are kept securely and only those employees who are authorised and are trained in our procedures are allowed access to them. In the event of incidents where recordings may need to be used as part of an investigation, we will make sure that this is necessary and record the reasons why.

Will surveillance recordings be used by anyone else?

There are occasions when copies of surveillance recordings are given to other organisations (for example, the Police). Whenever we transfer copies of recordings we make sure that the organisation is legally entitled to receive a copy and agrees to treat this information in accordance with Data Protection law.

How long are recordings kept?

We hold recordings for [30 days] at which point the recordings are recorded-over, degaussed (a process which wipes the content of a tape) or destroyed securely – in any event the content is no longer usable.

How can I access recordings?

Under the Data Protection Act, and from May 2016, The General Data Protection Regulations, you have the right to access personal information that is held about you. Surveillance recordings are included under this right. To make an access request you must provide relevant identification documents as follows:

- Proof of Identity: Driving License, Passport, Birth/Marriage Certificate or Benefit Book

- Proof of Address: A current utility bill or a 'proof of identity' document containing your address
- Proof of Likeness: A current accurate photograph of you in order for you to be correctly identified on video images

You may complete the form overleaf and hand-in to a reception point, or write to us with all the required information at the following address:
